

AFTER DARK

Kyle Fouts | Staff Photographer

Arkansas State University students show their appreciation as Judah and the Lions perform during the AFTERDARK Event in the Student Activities Center on Nov. 4.

A-State brought the AFTERDARK event to campus Nov. 4. AFTERDARK is a nationwide event that features a concert and Christian message. The A-State event was free to the public. It was held in the Student Activities Center, which gave students the opportunity to jump around and dance to the musicians performing. The featured musicians Judah and the Lion along with Tedashii. Also featured was a presentation by Joe White discussing “Is Jesus Relevant Today?” Students had the chance to bond and discover whether Jesus is relevant in their lives today at this captivating event. To see more photos from the AFTERDARK event, go to The Herald website, astateherald.com.

Melissa Martin | Staff Photographer

Volunteers for the event nail to the cross the sins written down by audience members during the AFTERDARK event in the Student Activities Center. This was the first concert in the Student Activities Center.

Melissa Martin | Staff Photographer

Tedashii, a Christian rap artist, performs first during the AFTERDARK concert.

Melissa Martin | Staff Photographer

Joe White carries the cross as he discusses Jesus Christ being forgiving of all sins during the message and concert with the theme “Is Jesus Relevant Today?”

Kyle Fouts | Staff Photographer

A crowd of A-State students enjoy the creative music of Tedashii during the AFTERDARK Wednesday night concert event.